

TLC Launch Website!

Written by Graham Riche

Friday, 06 July 2012 09:41 - Last Updated Friday, 06 July 2012 09:43

The Teddies for Loving Care charity has launched its own website in order to promote its activities to the wider community of which freemasons are a part.

The site contains a history of its origins in Nottinghamshire, with articles, news and feedback pages as well as a gallery of pictures and information about forthcoming events. It is hoped the website will promote interest in the charity and its activities and also become a regular source of up to date information to masons and non-masons alike.

Considerable thanks must go to Kevan Goddard who has designed the site and who has spent countless hours working on it in his spare time. The result is a thoroughly professional product which will serve the charity well for some time to come. Kevan has agreed to be our Webmaster and in addition our official photographer so we can look forward to the high standard of presentation being maintained.

Most importantly the site is an integral element of the Nottinghamshire Masons Provincial Website thereby promoting freemasonry in general.

The Teddies for Loving Care charity has launched its own website in order to promote its activities to the wider community of which freemasons are a part.

TLC Launch Website!

Written by Graham Riche

Friday, 06 July 2012 09:41 - Last Updated Friday, 06 July 2012 09:43

The site contains a history of its origins in Nottinghamshire, with articles, news and feedback pages as well as a gallery of pictures and information about forthcoming events. It is hoped the website will promote interest in the charity and its activities and also become a regular source of up to date information to masons and non-masons alike.

Considerable thanks must go to Kevan Goddard who has designed the site and who has spent countless hours working on it in his spare time. The result is a thoroughly professional product which will serve the charity well for some time to come. Kevan has agreed to be our Webmaster and in addition our official photographer so we can look forward to the high standard of presentation being maintained.

Most importantly the site is an integral element of the Nottinghamshire Masons Provincial Website thereby promoting freemasonry in general.